Invasive bladder tumors affect the muscle wall, and have a propensity to metastasize and spread to other areas of the body, and are more likely to be fatal. This book presents state-of-the-art diagnoses and treatments available for bladder cancer that has metastasised into the body. A thorough review of current practice is presented in a full color volume with more than 40 tables and 50 illustrations. The book offers a comprehensive review of the subject, covering epidemiology, screening, diagnostic factors, surgery, chemotherapy and post-operative monitoring. Most chapters are jointly written by a basic researcher and a clinician. If you have been diagnosed with prostate cancer, you owe it to yourself to become informed about the disease and to know all your treatment options. The good news is there has been great medical progress in recent years and prostate cancer is now a highly treatable disease. For most patients who are diagnosed early, the choice of treatment most often comes down to radiation versus radical surgery, either with or without some form of hormonal therapy. This book provides the latest medical data and explains why more men are now avoiding surgery and instead choosing state-of-the-art radiation therapy such as seed implants and IMRT (Intensity Modulated Radiation Therapy). Book jacket. Cancer and Me, I am forty- two years old when cancer became a permanent part of my own personal life. I have had lumps remove before they were not cancer. I knew what cancer can do to you, I experience that with my mothers' cancer years ago. So this was not something I was looking to see, because I thought that my other disease was going th take me out, before I get to the age that cancer would kill me. I had my first benign lump remove at the age of twenty- three. In 1989 I had a large lump that I was hospitalize for, it was in my right breast, it was taken out, it was not cancer. Then in the summer I went to the doctor, because my hormones were out of control, I was getting lumps everywhere on my body. The doctor sent me to a breast cancer, because she felt some lumps and I had problems in the past. The next months were spent in exams, test and being biopsy for breast cancer. In November the test showed that it was cancer in my right beast. Next the surgeons talked to me about what they were going to do to remove the tumor, they would do their best not to have to take the breast, just remove the cancer. I was also concern about the other lumps, that I had in other places on my body and because my left side and abdomen were causing me lots of pain, my stomach stayed blotted and I thought I might have been having with my ovaries too, so I ask the surgeons what, were they going to do about the pain in my abdomen and left side? The younger surgeon said, nothing, we are not doing anything about that. The older surgeon and the nurse walked out of the room, leaving me and the debating why not, he was right, no one as not done anything to this day. I went for a second opinion, but that fail too. I had the surgery, the doctor said the cancer had spread to my breast muscle, they said the cancer was a stage 1. They tried to put my breast back together, but two weeks later the surgeons had to do a complete mastectomy. I was given eight weeks of chemotherapy, which was not as bad as I thought it was going to be one, because I have sickle cell disease and my blood count stay so low. So for the next five years I made all of my six month check-ups. The problem with my left side and abdomen was the health problem that stocked me. Blotted stomach to the point that people would ask me when I was going to have my baby, when my stomach was really blotted, or when I was doing better what did I have, because I was not blotted today. I usually played off and said it was just RICE, I was never pregnant. The stinging in my abdomen became more progressive, by two thousand I was having stinging in my head, ribs and pelvis, my walking was becoming more difficult for me to stand or walk. My oncologist said it was just my SC disease, but I knew this pain was different. The next two years I went to about seven or eight doctors looking for help, but I only receive more tests. Then I went to the cancer society for help, the lady there told me to try going to an internal medicine doctor, so after some months I found one who would see me. She did some more tests and scans too, and I receive a call to come in, she had the results. A friend took me, I was glad to have someone with me when I heard the results, it looked like the cancer is on your skull, rib and pelvis, she asked me had I started to lose function of my body control. I told her no, not at this time. I went looking for a second opinion, before getting treatment cancer, something changed after my treatment back in 1995, I wanted to be sure, although I know something was wrong, from the way my body was hurting, since 2000. I had tests by a cancer doctor back than, his facial expression told me something was not good, but he said I was fine, but I could not forget that look when I went for my results for him. That look was one or two things. There was something there on the in my records or he thought I had something to be worried about and he could go against my other physicals so because of the pa pt.1 The science of cancer therapy --pt.2. The politics of cancer therapy. The simple fact is you MUST be looking at using natural cancer treatments and natural remedies to cure yourself of this shocking disease right now...Why?Because they work better than anything else! Statistics show that 150 years ago only 1 in every 100 people would get cancer. Fifty years ago it dropped to 1 in 50. Today, it This new clinical resource clearly explains how to approach integrated care in a way that combines Chinese herbal medicine with Western medicine to enhance and improve medical care for patients with cancer - without undermining or negatively impacting patients' medical treatment. Each chapter covers a different type of cancer, first introducing the conventional medical understanding of that cancer including its etiology, diagnosis, and treatment according to staging and type. The chapter then covers that cancer from the perspective of Oriental medicine. Case studies illustrate the integration of treatment for each cancer type, raising important issues and considerations associated with specific cancers and treatments. Formulas are presented within the context of conventional treatment, intended to enhance the effectiveness of treatment and/or treat side effects without undermining the treatment's function. Each formula is followed by a discussion of how and why the herbs are used, including classical Chinese theory and relevant pharmaceutical studies. Staging and the age and performance status of various patients is used as a means by which to explain how formulas are changed. Case studies explore issues related to the integration of treatment for each type of cancer. This book was written both for survivors and health professionals, some of whom are cancer survivors, too. Our goal is to provide you with a survivor's road map. --Dr. Ernest H. Rosenbaum * More than 30 medical professionals reveal insights on surviving cancer to empower cancer survivors and their caregivers, as well as the doctors who manage their continued care. The CDC's National Action Plan for Cancer Survivorship estimates that there are 9.6 million persons living following a cancer diagnosis. And this number is strictly related to patients. It does not include family members, friends, or caregivers. For anyone approaching life from the perspective of remission, respected oncologist Dr. Ernest Rosenbaum leads a team of 34 oncology specialists and medical contributors--some of whom are both doctors and survivors themselves--in creating a guide specifically geared for cancer survivorship. The growing number of people approaching life post-cancer will find solace, understanding, and opportunity with information specifically geared to managing the lingering effects of cancer treatment, such as: * Lifestyle changes to improve health and longevity * What survivors need to know following anticancer therapy * How to manage the side effects of chemotherapy and radiation therapy * How to set goals for the future An assessment of cancer addresses both the courageous battles against the disease and the misperceptions and hubris that have compromised modern understandings, providing coverage of such topics as ancient-world surgeries and the development of present-day treatments. Reprint. Best-selling winner of the Pulitzer Prize. Includes reading-group guide. Can you overcome lung cancer without harsh chemicals, surgery and debilitation? Are alternative interventions effective? Why do conventional physicians not use them? Can you prevent cancer recurrences and live into old age without chronic diseases and prescribed medications? This book answers these and other questions. This is one of the most comprehensive books available on alternative treatments for lung cancer. It explains the treatments used successfully by a health professional/cancer survivor of 36 years and by some of the leading medical and health practitioners currently in the field. G. Edward Griffin, Author of World Without Cancer, The Politics of Cancer Therapy, and other books and films. Recipient of the Telly Award for Excellence in Television Production. It's designed to help newly diagnosed women start coping with their own cancer treatment. Written by a writer who was diagnosed with invasive ductal carcinoma shortly after her 49th birthday, the Case Manager contains all the useful advice and information she received from the people she met on her own journey through Cancerland: doctors, nurses, cancer counselors, social workers, support group members. The Case Manager is organized chronologically, covering diagnosis, surgery, treatment, dealing with health plans, managing mental health, what it means to be a "survivor" and more. The key chapters break down into two parts: first the humorous/ironic tale of the author's own experience with highlighted "tips" along the way, and second the "personal organizer." The organizer contains: annotated resource sections containing a selection of books, groups and Internet sites that provide reliable information without being overwhelming suggested questions to ask doctors diary pages master appointment record address book place to record pathology and test reports chemo and radiation "symptom journals" The organizer provides the patient a way to keep all her "information" in one place, in a format compact enough to take along whenever she goes to the doctor's office. The narrative is filled with humor--if not exactly laugh-out-loud-so-hard-till-you-cry funny, at least smile-in-understanding, wince-with-the-irony funny. Why? Because studies show that a good laugh is therapeutic, not to mention a very practical defense mechanism that can help anyone get through the terrible and terrifying experience of breast cancer treatment. Despite the hundreds of books about breast cancer on the market, no other book is a case manager. No other single book provides the breast cancer patient a pre-packaged personal organizer to manage her own treatment -- so important when a woman is faced with the myriad, new and often bewildering details of being a cancer patient. The goal of What's a Body To Do? The Breast Cancer Case Manager is to make it easier for women to take back control of their lives and manage their own, unique treatment. Knowledge is power, and the Case Manager provides women the launching pad from which to acquire it. Early reviews: "Pack up your hopes, a knowledgeable health care team, your social supports, and your spiritual beliefs to bring along on the journey through cancer treatment--you have a wealth of inner strength available to you, which The Breast Cancer Cas A provocative and surprising investigation into the ways that profit, personalities, and politics obstruct real progress in the war on cancer—and one doctor's passionate call to action for change This year, nearly 1.6 million new cases of cancer will be diagnosed and more than 1,500 people will die per day. We've been asked to accept the disappointing strategy to "manage cancer as a chronic disease." We've allowed pharmaceutical companies to position cancer drugs that extend life by just weeks and may cost $100,000 for a single course of treatment as breakthroughs. Why have we been able to cure and prevent other killer diseases but not most cancers? Where is the bold government leadership that will transform our system from treatment to prevention? Have we forgotten the mission of the National Cancer Act of 1971, to "conquer cancer"? Through an analysis of over 40 years of medical evidence and interviews with cancer doctors, researchers, drug company executives, and health policy advisors, Dr. Cuomo reveals frank and intriguing answers to these questions. She shows us how all cancer stakeholders—the pharmaceutical industry, government, physicians, and concerned Americans—can change the way we view and fight cancer in this country. Even after many years of research and new treatments, cancer is still the number one killer in the world today. Per NCIs SEER report, it is estimated that 1,444,920 men and women (766,860 men and 678,060 women) were diagnosed with and 559,650 men and women died of cancer of all types in 2007. In the US and around the world, the largest amount of funds is being allocated to cancer research. The very word acancera sounds like a death sentence. Most doctors advise their patients, as well as those who would like to avoid the disease, to change avoidable risk factors, like smoking, follow strict diet and exercise, and avoid excessive amount of exposure to insecticides, radioactive material, etc. The discouraging news, however, is that many doctors will readily admit that although we know how to cure most type of cancers, we have not really pinpointed specific causes for it. Dr. Larry Clapp was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 1990. Given the limited options of surgery and radiation, he began intensive research into self-healing alternatives and developed a treatment for prostate cancer, which he successfully used to cure himself. Today, cancer-free, he continues his research while helping others using nutrition, massage, herbs, homeopathy, and other alternatives. The niche bestseller "Surviving Prostate Cancer Without Surgery" begins with the shooting of a urologist and includes a World War II Battle. The book exposes the big lie about radical prostate surgery, is filled with cartoons and simple diagrams, and is written for the average layperson in easy-to-understand style. The author, Bradley Hennenfent, M.D., has known many men who suffered from prostate cancer and his book includes many uplifting stories about less harmful treatments than surgery. Dr. Hennenfent also explains the problem of lies, damn lies, and prostate cancer statistics. The adverse effects of surgery: impotence, sexual dysfunction, incontinence, and urethral strictures are explained in realistic fashion. Urologist W. Reid Pitts, Jr., M.D., FACS, wrote an outstanding letter-to-the-editor of the "Journal of Urology" lambasting the radical prostatectomy. When interviewed for "Surviving Prostate Cancer Without Surgery," Dr. Pitts said: "Although I did the first ever nerve sparing radical prostatectomy at New York-Cornell Hospital, I've abandoned the radical prostatectomy for my prostate cancer patients. There is always a better treatment option." "Two randomized, controlled studies suggest that about 90% of all prostate cancer surgery done to date has failed to extend the life of the patient," says Dr. Bradley Hennenfent M.D., the book's author, who adds, "This will be news to most men." "Surgery should not be advertised as a cure-all for prostate cancer," says Dr. Hennenfent, "although surgery does increase the lifespan of about 10% of highly selected patients, and improvements in surgery are constantly being developed." "My book details the harm done by surgery, while explaining the pros and cons of watchful waiting, active surveillance, noninvasive therapy, radiation seed implants, three-dimensional radiation therapy, herbal medications, cryosurgery, and hormone blockade." Some people suffer from chronic, debilitating disorders for which no conventional treatment brings relief. Can marijuana ease their symptoms? Would it be breaking the law to turn to marijuana as a medication? There are few sources of objective, scientifically sound advice for people in this situation. Most books about marijuana and medicine attempt to promote the views of advocates or opponents. To fill the gap between these extremes, authors Alison Mack and Janet Joy have extracted critical findings from a recent Institute of Medicine study on this important issue, interpreting them for a general audience. Marijuana As Medicine? provides patients—as well as the people who care for them—with a foundation for making decisions about their own health care. This empowering volume examines several key points, including: Whether marijuana can relieve a variety of symptoms, including pain, muscle spasticity, nausea, and appetite loss. The dangers of smoking marijuana, as well as the effects of its active chemical components on the immune system and on psychological health. The potential use of marijuana-based medications on symptoms of AIDS, cancer, multiple sclerosis, and several other specific disorders, in comparison with existing treatments. Marijuana As Medicine? introduces readers to the active compounds in marijuana. These include the principal ingredient in Marinol, a legal medication. The authors also discuss the prospects for developing other drugs derived from marijuana's active ingredients. In addition to providing an up-to-date review of the science behind the medical marijuana debate, Mack and Joy also answer common questions about the legal status of marijuana, explaining the conflict between state and federal law regarding its medical use. Intended primarily as an aid to patients and caregivers, this book objectively presents critical information so that it can be used to make responsible health care decisions. Marijuana As Medicine? will also be a valuable resource for policymakers, health care providers, patient counselors, medical faculty and students—in short, anyone who wants to learn more about this important issue. This failure can compromise the effectiveness of health care and thereby adversely affect the health of cancer patients. Psychological and social problems created or exacerbated by cancer--including depression and other emotional problems; lack of information or skills needed to manage the illness; lack of transportation or other resources; and disruptions in work, school, and family life--cause additional suffering, weaken adherence to prescribed treatments, and threaten patients' return to health. Today, it is not possible to deliver high-quality cancer care without using existing approaches, tools, and resources to address patients' psychosocial health needs. All patients with cancer and their families should expect and receive cancer care that ensures the provision of appropriate psychosocial health services. Cancer Care for the Whole Patient recommends actions that oncology providers, health policy makers, educators, health insurers, health planners, researchers and research sponsors, and consumer advocates should undertake to ensure that this standard is met. When Julie Moffitt was diagnosed with Stage 3 breast cancer, it galvanized her to take her long-held interest in Complementary and Alternative Medicine (CAM) to optimize her healing in every way she could. While she chose to follow the mainstream regimen her doctors recommended - surgery, chemotherapy and radiation - she also embarked on a daily routine of guided imagery, affirmations, meditation, yoga and exercise. In addition, she made frequent visits to Reiki practitioners and Sound Healing therapists. Not only is she now healthy and cancer-free, she found the experience empowering and life-changing. This is the story of how it can be like that for you, too. For a single mother living payslip to payslip, the condition was both a crisis and an initiation into new ideas about mortality and the gendered politics of illness. In The Undying - at once her harrowing memoir of survival, and a 21st-century Illness as Metaphor - Boyer draws on sources from ancient Roman dream diarists to cancer vloggers to explore the experience of illness. She investigates the quackeries, casualties and ecological costs of cancer under capitalism, and dives into the long line of women writing about their own illnesses and deaths, among them Audre Lorde, Kathy Acker and Susan Sontag. Genre-bending, devastating and profoundly humane, The Undying is an unmissably insightful meditation on cancer, the cancer industry and the sicknesses and glories of contemporary life. I was horrified when I learned I had cancer and even more horrified when I was told I only had 6 months or a year to live if I did not do chemotherapy and/or radiation. CANCER GAVE ME HEALTH - and this is my story how I defeated cancer without chemotherapy or radiation. In 2011 I was told I was going to die if I didn't do the "standard" recommendations to deal with my diagnosis. I had no idea that there were several types of breast cancer. I thought breast cancer was just breast cancer, period. I was told there is no guarantee of a cancer cure. Not even the "standard" conventional cancer treatments state there is a cure. I was told if I did not do chemotherapy and/or radiation, statistically I would not live past twelve months and there was no guarantee I wouldn't get cancer again. Instead I chose to educate myself and apply what I learned to be a chemotherapy and radiation-free cancer survivor. I do not profess to be a doctor or a scientist. I have explained in my way, what I have learned and understand and believe to be true about chemotherapy and radiation and why I did not do it. The approved cancer treatment which is: Surgery, Radiation Therapy, and Chemotherapy does not cure cancer. Any form of treatment that is not approved by the Federal Drug Administration (FDA) is illegal, so medical doctors are prohibited to use any other treatment of cancer except Surgery, Radiation Therapy, and Chemotherapy. Research shows that strengthening of the Immune System plays an important role in letting the body heal itself. But for some reason, the government does not go out of its way to approve any other form of treatment or support any research in this regard. Enlightened cancer patients want to seek alternative treatments given by alternative and integrative medical professionals, who are holistic health practitioners. But because their services are not recognized by the government and by the conventional medical profession, therefore medicare and supplemental insurance do not pay for these services, most cancer patients cannot avail of these services, because they are expensive. This book is the story of 3 wives of a medical doctor who in spite of sixty years in the medical profession felt helpless while his wives were suffering from this devastating disease. He realized the inadequate approved treatment of cancer, was enlightened after five years of research about the causes of chronic diseases including cancer and found the truth about Conventional and Alternative Treatment of Cancer. He wrote this book with the hope that people will learn and be enlightened about their longevity, and the government realizes that the approved Cancer Treatment: Surgery, Radiation Therapy, and Chemotherapy do not cure cancer. He believes that the cure of cancer lies mainly in strengthening the immune system, and hopes that the government authorities recognize the holistic practitioners and support the research to strengthen the immune system to help the body heal itself. A Doody's Core Title 2012 This new comprehensive reference provides a state-of-the-art overview of the principles of cancer care and best practices for restoring function and quality of life to cancer survivors. Authored by some of the world's leading cancer rehabilitation experts and oncology specialists, the principles section provides primer level discussions of the various cancer types and their assessment and management. The practice section thoroughly explores the identification, evaluation, and treatment of specific impairments and disabilities that result from cancer and the treatment of cancer. This groundbreaking volume enables the entire medical team to provide superior care that results in a better quality of life for cancer survivors. Features include: Multi-specialty editorship and authorship from physiatry, oncology, physical therapy, occupational therapy, and related disciplines. Focus on therapeutic management of cancer-related impairments and complications. In-depth treatment of the medical, neurologic, musculoskeletal, and general rehabilitation issues specific to this patient population. The ER doctor said, "Let's take a chest x-ray just to be safe." The results were simple, the sentence easily stated, and the next time period of life was about to be defined. "There is a white spot on the top right lung. You'd better have your doctor look at this!" That spot turned out to be lung cancer, and with that diagnosis Jim and Betty Serritella began a journey of tests and treatment on the road to becoming cancer-free. Fighting and winning the battle with cancer is a long and arduous process. You need a team of doctors and nurses you can trust, friends and loved ones to provide support, and lots of prayer. The Journey Through Cancer is a road map of the process Jim and Betty followed to battle Betty's lung cancer. Jim wrote this book to help provide guidance for those on their own cancer journey, especially the caregivers and patient advocates, and to share lessons they learned along the way. "The Journey is a heartfelt personal account of struggle through the diagnosis, treatment and recovery of cancer. This book is not an oncology textbook written by a medical expert. This is a user's guide written by an experienced caregiver intended to help other patients, caregivers and "team members" get a better understanding and insight into this most challenging process." Dr. Neil Farber, MD, PhD, Associate Professor "This book offers great spiritual, medical and practical guidance for the cancer patient, caregiver, relative of patient, friend of patient, and those working on the patient's prayer chain. Please read it, and remember how each of us being treated need those daily naps, good nights of sleep, and the knowledge that our loved ones are in our corner at all times, supporting our effort to battle the disease, with prayer, good wishes, humor and the occasional good meal." Cancer survivor - Daniel M. Gray, Attorney at Law, Falls Church, VA Jim Serritella is veteran of the US Air Force, and he spent more than fifty years in the world of systems, computers, and consulting. He is a life member of the Disabled American Veterans, the American Legion Post 171 of Damascus, Maryland, and a fourth degree Knight of Columbus. His advice for those going through the cancer journey: Don't stop asking questions. And don't forget to pray for help and understanding in fighting a battle you cannot win alone. Expert Advice on Preventing and Reversing Cancer Foreword by SUBHASH CHANDRA Preface by HARSH MARIWALA According to WHO, the number of global cancer deaths is projected to increase by 45 percent, where over two-thirds of the deaths occur in low- and middle-income countries. This makes India, and you, vulnerable. There is already someone you know who has cancer. So, you know that the threat is real and near. But now there is a way out. Certified cancer nutrition coach Rachna Chhachhi shows you how to train your cells to respond to physical and emotional nurturing to fight cancer. In this book, you will learn all about preventing the world's most feared disease with the help of holistic nutrition. You can also combine it with Western medicine, if you are already under treatment. Quoting the cases of her many clients across 27 countries who have defeated the odds after their diagnoses, and with the support of global cancer research, Chhachhi illustrates how to prevent, manage or reverse cancer for yourself. IN YOU CAN BEAT CANCER, SHE DISCUSSES: • What causes cancer • How not to fear the diagnosis • The necessity of practicing meditation, pranayama & gratitude • Ways to avoid cancer-triggering habits • The impact of natural immunotherapy • How epigenetics can change your genes' response towards cancer cells • More than 100 unique anticancer recipes RACHNA CHHACHHI is a certified cancer nutrition coach and holds a PhD in holistic nutrition. She is best-known for her work with cancer and autoimmune patients. She has been writing on health for 20 years for mainstream Indian newspapers and magazines and has been extensively interviewed in media. "Rachna's book is the need of the hour today to protect ourselves." Manisha Koirala, Actor & Cancer Warrior "Gift this book to everyone you care for, everyone you want to gift a life without cancer." Dr Subhash Chandra, Chairman, Essel Group "This book will be an important milestone in cancer prevention and management..." Harsh Mariwala, Chairman, Marico Ltd. In this book, we disclose a completely new methodology for fighting cancer. In this book, we(1) disclose a systematic methodology for curing cancer in confidence;(2) extensively discuss how to do right things to win a speed contest in fighting cancer;(3) extensively discuss how to do right things to control cancer cell population, a critical measure to survive;(4) provides detailed analysis of fatal common mistakes that have taken nine of ten cancer patient lives; and(5) expose flaws in cancer treatment model and foundation of medicine. The approach used is similar to one we used in Health Optimization Engineering, a new branch of health art. The soul of our methodology is a two-way optimization methodology in fighting diseases. The book teaches the decisive roles of SPEED, NUMBER and MULTIPLE FACTORS. Those three terms are not mentioned in medical books, cancer research articles, and are not part of the language used in hospitals. That is why "cancer" has become a term that shocks people. A false diagnosis of cancer can take the lives of some fragile people. Any treatment without using cancer dynamics is unsuccessful. President Nixon declared a war on cancer in 1971 with his signing of The National Cancer Act. This war has been all but lost as no cure has been found. We have heard time and again that researchers have found "a cure to cancer." No real cure has been found. No single drug can cure cancer. We have heard again and again about "ground-breaking cancer research." One thing that has never been changed is the approach to using drugs and the basic treatment model used in hospital. Those two things determine such promises will forever be empty promises. We show in our book that as long as drugs have side effects and are administered periodically, such drugs cannot be real cures. One reason is that the cancer dynamic nature determines that no drug can root out all cancer cells in the human body by a brief application. Another obvious reason is that cancer cells can generate massive numbers of new cells in any 24 hour window, which are ample in each of drug break periods. Patients are often told their cancers are "in remission" or they are "cancer-free in a time window that is absolutely impossible. This kind of ignorance places cancer patients in a definitive course to lose their lives. The stories about Steve Jobs, Farrah Fawcett, William Rehnquist, John McCain, Ted Kennedy, Sydney Pollack, etc. reveal one or more obvious reasons for their lost fights. None of those who lost their lives are taught with multiple factor approach. Any of several combinations can cure cancer in perhaps 80% to 90% of chances. By understanding the three most important terms, nearly all cancer patients can survive. Do you have a friend or relative that has gone through the embarrassment of colon cancer or colon cancer treatment? Through intrusive in nature, colon cancer pre-screening is important to save your life. If your colon is susceptible for cancer due to heredity or predetermined hormones in your genetic code, you can be at danger of contracting colon cancer. If gone untreated the cancer can spread to your lymph nodes, liver, blood, or lungs. The cancer can spread fast and can be in your body without you even knowing about. Over 2,000,000 people will develop colon cancer a year and within those numbers over 50,000 people will die. Colon cancer can happen to you at any age but statistically it occurs in people age 35 and up. Women and children can develop colon cancer just as frequently and as severe as adult men. No matter what life style you live, colon cancer can sneak up on you without you even knowing. There are preventive measures you can take to reduce your chance of colon cancer. Through diet, lifestyle choices, and pre-screening you can reduce the chance of the development of colon cancer significantly. By knowing what the cancer is, where it can form, and how to diagnosis it, you can save yourself and your family grief that can strain relationships and put your families in financial ruin. If you already have colon cancer or know a friend who does, you can find ways to treat and keep the colon cancer from reoccurring. It is all up to you to find out more about colon cancer. Excerpt from A New Receipt Book for the Treatment of All Kinds of Cancer Without Cutting, Burning or Loss of Blood In my opening chapter I will make a brief survey of the ground I expect to cover and give to the public an adequate idea of this disease in its worst forms and its fatality to the human race. Cancer like fever appears under different forms and authorities differ on the number of kinds of cancer - some going so far as to put the number at eight others down to five. In my practice of more than thirty years I have come across what I would pronounce seven different varieties. Some noted physicians often call tumors, cancers, which if added would swell the number much larger. These tumors are the cancers which the eminent surgeon points to as successfully removed by his knife. True the cure was effected in the proper way but it was no cancer. In this unique handbook, the author describes his personal experience in treating cancer from 3 entirely different points of view: As an expert Oncologist, as a physician using CAM - Complementary Alternative Medicine, and as a cancer victim himself. Cancer patients and professionals will find this handbook as one of the most exhaustive, definitive and up to date resources of information combining complementary medicine and traditional methods for prevention and treatment of cancer. The handbook is based on Dr. Brenner's many years of experience in treating cancer by conventional and alternative medicine, and on many articles he published in the mainstream medical journals, dealing with alternative medicine and its contribution to the treatment of cancer. Various complementary and alternative treatments for different kinds of cancer are described in detail. The reader will be able to find answers to many questions categorized by various types of cancer: - What is the right diet for specific cancers - What life habits need changing - How can cancer be treated by hypothermia - What vitamins and minerals are most suitable for specific cancers The handbook describes the effect of food additives such as hormones, enzymes, amino-acids, fatty-acids and herbs on cancer; various treatments for symptoms such as: lack of appetite, diarrhea, nausea, etc..., the effect of food additives on increasing efficacy and decreasing toxicity of chemotherapy and radiation therapy. Carcinoma of the prostate increasingly dominates the attention of urologists for both scientific and clinical reasons. The search for an explanation and the prediction of the variable behaviour of the malignant prostatic cell continues unabated. The search for more precise tumour staging and more effective treatment is equally vigorous. Editors Andrew Bruce and John Trachtenberg have assembled acknowledged leaders in prostate cancer to present those areas of direct interest to the clinician. There are a number of other topics that might have been considered but most of these, such as experimental tumour models or biochemical factors affecting cell growth, still lack immediate application for the clinician. Carcinoma of the prostate continues to have its highest incidence in the western world, and the difference in comparison with the incidence in the Far East appears to be real and not masked by diagnostic or other factors. A number of other epidemiological aspects need careful analysis: Is the incidence increasing? Is the survival improving? Is the prognosis worse in the younger patient? Epidemiological data are easily misused and misinterpreted so that a precise analysis of the known facts makes an important opening chapter to this book. In Meeting Psychosocial Needs of Women with Breast Cancer, the National Cancer Policy Board of the Institute of Medicine examines the psychosocial consequences of the cancer experience. The book focuses specifically on breast cancer in women because this group has the largest survivor population (over 2 million) and this disease is the most extensively studied cancer from the standpoint of psychosocial effects. The book characterizes the psychosocial consequences of a diagnosis of breast cancer, describes psychosocial services and how they are delivered, and evaluates their effectiveness. It assesses the status of professional education and training and applied clinical and health services research and proposes policies to improve the quality of care and quality of life for women with breast cancer and their families. Because cancer of the breast is likely a good model for cancer at other sites, recommendations for this cancer should be applicable to the psychosocial care provided generally to individuals with cancer. For breast cancer, and indeed probably for any cancer, the report finds that psychosocial services can provide significant benefits in quality of life and success in coping with serious and life-threatening disease for patients and their families. The nutritional/enzyme cancer treatment developed by the alternative practitioner Dr. William Donald Kelley. In this book, you will read why Dr. Kelley believed no one ideal diet suits everyone and how he developed ten basic diets for his patients ranging from vegetarian to carnivore. You will also learn the underlying rationale for Dr. Kelley's precise use of nutritional supplements including pancreatic enzymes, which provided the main anti-cancer effect of his therapy. The book also discusses the various "detoxification" routines prescribed by Dr. Kelley, such as coffee enemas, which he claimed helped neutralize the effects of dead tumor wastes that accumulate during treatment.
